PRESIDENT's REPORT

During the year 2005-06, CPR continued its study process of Financial, Institutional and Academic consolidation. On the Financial side, CPR has attracted a diverse range of projects that will not only add to the prestige and profile of the institution, but will also allow some degree of Financial stability to next two to three years. The exciting aspect of these projects that they have allowed CPR to attract a wonderful group of young Faculty: C.V. Madhukar, Partha Mukhopadhyay, Shylashri Shankar and Lavanya Rajamani (will be expected to join in August). Each of these Faculty members are academically accomplished and have come to us from some of the best Universities in the world. They will enable us to develop substantial research programs in areas of Law, Regulations, Environment, Urbanisation and Infrastructure.

The range of CPR’s interests can be seen in the number of new projects (listed below) initiated this year.

PROJECTS

Public Private Partnership
Policy Initiatives of Conflict Zones
Study of the performance of identified Commissions / Tribunals / Regulatory Authorities
A Fresh Look on India’s Look East Policy: Strategic Dimensions
External Relations – Role of Education
Ten-day Symposium-cum-Workshop on “Nuclear Policy Issues”
National Knowledge Commission
Administrative Reforms Commission
Institutional Learning and Change
Institutions for Poverty Reduction: Understanding and enabling Institutional Changes
New Insights into Promoting Rural Innovations: Lessons from Civil Society
Electricity Governance Toolkit Application
Rethinking North-East
Parliamentary Research Services
Social Rights in Developing Countries
Secular Journeys: A Workshop series on Comparative Secularism in the Middle East and South Asia
Rise of China and India
Support for DFID Hosted Conference on Asia, March 2006

CPR still needs a couple of more Faculty Members especially in Economics. It also needs new crop of practitioners. However, we now have a considerable academic base to make a substantial mark.

CPR remained very active in public debates. Our Faculty produced more than two hundred op-eds during the year. Many of these were key interventions in defining the public debate over topics such as Water, Urbanisation, Indo-US Nuclear Deal, Affirmative Action, Constitutional Law, Governance, Education and the whole range of other subjects. These public interventions were backed by solid research and academic production as you will see from the faculty publications in the enclosed lists. If one of the functions of CPR is to provide a platform for informed intervention in public debates, CPR is fulfilling that function admirably,
Our new unit, Parliamentary Research Service, has, in a very short spell of time established itself as an important source of information about the legislature. Mr. Madhukar and his team have produced eight parliamentary briefings so far, that have become authoritative guides to the Bills they discuss. But PRS’s functions are going beyond producing briefs: it is now being called upon by ministries and members of parliament to assist in research, its briefings are prompting parliamentary questions, and civil society references to the briefings are increasing. PRS is proving to be a vital instrument for engaging in policy debates, and will make its presence felt even more substantially in years to come.

CPR also increased its involvement in formulation of government policy. It has played a key role in two important Government Commissions – Administrative Reforms Commission and National Knowledge Commission. The workshops its organised on behalf of the ARC, gathered an impressive number of policy makers, and will provide vital inputs to that Commission. CPR is also acting as the Nodal Research Agency for the National Knowledge Commission. In addition CPR continued to assist the Government in Track-II Dialogue (Third India-Canada Policy Dialogue, Third India-Serbia and Montenegro Dialogue and Sixth Bangladesh-China-India Myanmar [BCIM] Forum) and the whole range of smaller projects. In all these engagements, CPR has provided crucial academic inputs to make the formulation of policy more rigorous.

CPR also mange to revise its academic profile during the year, perhaps, its academic success is best exemplified by the faculty that two successive President’s of American Political Science Association visited CPR. Both gave public lectures. In addition, the visit by the current President Prof. Ira Katznelson, was the occasion for a splendid workshop on “Indian and American Democracy in a Tocquevillian Frame.” The workshop, chaired by the President, Partha Chaterjee and Ira Katznelson, gathered together an India’s finest political scientists and is likely to result in a substantial research project over the years. CPR was also one of the first institutions to organize an event on the Nepal crisis, with representatives of some of the Nepal political parties present. In November CPR organized a major conference in Guwahati on the North East. This conference proved to be a catalyst, for some fresh thinking about the problems of the North East, and was widely covered in the press. A volume based on this conference is in the process of being prepared. CPR also organised a Workshop on India-China comparison in Colombo and will do a bigger Conference in India next year. CPR also ventured into the territory of organizing short courses, especially in the area of nuclear strategy. In addition, CPR attracted a range of speakers. Most seminars that CPR organized during the year were centered around the theme of “Service Delivery.” The level and volume of CPR activities can be evidence from the number of Workshops and Seminars its organised during the course of the years as listed in the enclosed report.

While CPR has a long way to go in improving its academic and policy standings further, I firmly believe it is now has a solid base on which to proceed. Our focus will remain on issues broadly relating to Governance and Political Economy. For 2006-07 we are planning to give a big thrust to urban studies at CPR. This will allow us to occupy another niche area. One of the pleasures at CPR during 2005-06 was that the number of faculty and research associates once again made the building a lively place. CPR received a number of students as interns from the world’s top universities, including Princeton and Johns Hopkins; it also received visiting faculty, most notably, Muthiah Alagappa, Director of the East West Center.
I would like to thank all Faculty, Research Associates and staff members for the very wonderful contribution to CPR and the Members of the Executive Committee for ensuring that stayed disciplined.
RESEARCH PUBLICATIONS

The following research studies were brought out during the year 2005-06:

A. Books Published (under CPR imprint)

1. Asian Regionalism: Canadian and Indian Perspectives
   Edited by Charan D. Wadhva and Yuen Pau Woo
   244 p.
   Papers and policy recommendations generated by the first two, out of a series of three, Dialogues held between India and Canada in the year 2003, have been put together in this volume. The Track-II Dialogues were launched under the auspices of the Asia Pacific Foundation of Canada and the Centre for Policy Research, New Delhi.

2. India and Serbia and Montenegro Re-Engagement: Regional and Bilateral Dimensions
   Edited by Charan D. Wadhva and Vatroslav Vekaric
   360 p.
   Serbia-Montenegro, once part of Josip Broz Tito’s Yugoslavia, is today a country discovering itself in a changing global environment.

   The papers selected and published in this volume should be of interest to policy makers and researchers in India, Asia as well as Europe.

3. Bhakra-Nangal Project: Socio-Economic and Environmental Impacts
   By R. Rangachari
   New Delhi; Oxford University Press, 2006.
   256p.
   This book is the outcome of a Research Study of CPR, sponsored by the Third World Centre for Water Management.

   In recent years, particularly since the days of the World Commission on Large Dams, large dams have come under increasing criticism. This book is an indepth study of the best known multi-purpose river valley project of India, the Bhakra Nangal Project. This is, perhaps, the first scientific and comprehensive performance analysis of a completed project in India.
4. Electricity Sector Governance in India: An Analysis of Institutions and Practice (Application of the Electricity Governance Indicator Toolkit in India.)

   By Sudha Mahalingam et al.

   New Delhi; Centre for Policy Research, 2006.

   43p.

   This report on the state of governance in India’s electricity sector is based on a study conducted by three NGOs active in power sector policies and regulation. Associated with the project were Prayas, Pune; NIPFP, New Delhi and World Resources Institute, Washington D.C., with Dr. Sudha Mahalingam, Senior Research Fellow at CPR as the Project Coordinator.

i. A Critique on ‘Unravelling Bhakra’ by Shripad Dharmadhikary of Manthan Adhyayan Kendra, Badwani

   By R Rangachari

   New Delhi; Centre for Policy Research, 2005, 33p.

ii. Public Policy Making in India: Issues and Remedies

   By O P Agarwal and T V Somanathan

C. Articles Published by CPR Faculty

   About 200 articles were also published by CPR Faculty Members in the major national/international dailies and popular journals during the year (listed under individual faculty).

BOOK/REPORT RELEASE

i. Ms. Aruna Roy, Magsaysay Award winner released the report on Electricity Sector Governance in India: An Analysis of Institutions and Practice - Application of the Electricity Governance Indicator Toolkit in India authored by Dr. Sudha Mahalingam, CPR, Bharat Jairaj, Sriharini Narayanan and Kirtana Chandrasekhar, Citizen Consumer and Civic Action Group, Chennai, M. Thimma Reddy, Center for Environmental Concerns, Hyderabad, Surinder Kumar and Rajesh Kumar, Praja, New Delhi in association with Shantanu Dixit, Prayas (Energy Group), Pune, Navroz K. Dubash, National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi and Smita Nakhooda, World Resources Institute, Washington, DC, USA.

The function was attended by a select group of invitees at Centre for Policy Research, New Delhi on 3 March 2006.

RESEARCH PROJECTS COMPLETED

1. Asian Regionalism: Canadian and Indian Perspectives

   In leading the shift to a new way of thinking about Canada-India relations, the Asia Pacific Foundation of Canada and the Centre for Policy Research in New Delhi launched the "Track II" Canada-India Policy Dialogue series in 2003. These annual meetings provided a venue for scholars, policy analysts, business people, and civil society representatives to discuss issues that are of mutual interest to Canada and India going well beyond the limitations of official dialogue. After the completion of the project, an edited volume containing papers and policy recommendations from the first two Dialogues entitled Asian Regionalism: Canadian and Indian Perspectives, edited by Charan D. Wadhva and Yuen Pau Woo was published. This volume presents selected papers from the first two such Policy Dialogues and is organised into three sections: Perspectives on Regional Integration in Asia; Perspectives on the WTO and Doha Development Agenda; and Strengthening Canada-India Bilateral Relations. These essays break new ground in identifying areas of mutual interest and provide a glimpse into the potential for stronger and deeper Canada-India ties.

2. India and Serbia and Montenegro Re-Engagement: Regional and Bilateral Dimensions

   The Centre for Policy Research at New Delhi and the Institute of International Politics and Economics at Belgrade jointly took the initiative of organising annual bilateral policy dialogues to assess the gains from and to find effective ways for re-engagement between India and Serbia. After the completion of the project, an edited volume containing papers and policy recommendations from the first two Dialogues entitled India and Serbia and Montenegro Re-Engagement: Regional and Bilateral Dimensions, edited by Charan D. Wadhva and Vatroslav Vekaric was published. This book presents selected papers from the first two such Policy Dialogues at Track-II level held in 2003 and 2004 are organised into four sections: Global positioning of India and Serbia-Montenegro; Regional cooperation and integration; Managing diversities; and India and Serbia-Montenegro bilateral relations: potential and prospects. This book should be found useful by policy makers and researchers worldwide, interested in regional and bilateral co-operation in India, Asia, Serbia-Montenegro and Europe.

3. Socio Economic and Environmental Impacts of Bhakra Nangal Project

This research project, sponsored by the Third World Centre for Water Management and supported by the Nippon Foundation, Japan was completed in July 2004. The findings of the research study have since been published by the Oxford University Press, New Delhi in the form of a book entitled Bhakra Nangal Project: Socio-economic and Environmental Impacts authored by R. Rangachari.

Large dams and multipurpose river valley projects, initially lauded as ‘temples of modern India’ in the Nehruvian era came under increasing criticism in the later years owing to social and economic concerns.

This publication is a pioneer scientific performance analysis of a completed river valley scheme, which has already served the nation for nearly five decades.

It examines how far the stated objectives of the project have been fulfilled. The volume studies the incidental and indirect consequences of the dam including its synergetic impact and the ‘green revolution’; increased food production and productivity in the area; and the displacement and rehabilitation of people from the areas submerged when the dam was built. Informative, yet written in an engaging manner, this volume will interest environmentalists, water management experts, activists, bureaucrats, policy planners, and an informed general public.

4. Electricity Governance Indicator Toolkit Application – Pilot Phase, India Country Study

Centre for Policy Research hosted the Electricity Governance project funded jointly by World Resources Institute (WRI), Washington D.C and USAID. The initiative was undertaken simultaneously in four Asian countries and CPR hosted the India assessment. The project involved applying an Electricity Governance Indicator Toolkit jointly developed by three institutions, namely, WRI, NIPFP, New Delhi and Prayas, Pune. The toolkit, which asks a number of relevant and pertinent questions relating to the state of governance in the power sector, was applied to policy-making at the centre, to independent regulation at the state level and to environmental and social factors at both the central and state levels. The state level assessments were carried out by civil society organisations active in the power sector in three select states. The project report – which presents a scorecard on the state of governance in India’s power sector - was formally released at a function held at the CPR premises on 3 March 2006 by Ms. Aruna Roy, Magsaysay Award winning crusader for good governance in India. The India assessment report was also presented at the Electricity Governance Workshop held at Bangkok in March 2006 for all the four Asian participants.

The project was co-ordinated at CPR by Dr. Sudha Mahalingam, Senior Research Fellow.
5. Institutions for Poverty Reduction: Understanding and Enabling Institutional Changes that Promote Pro-Poor Post-Harvest Innovation

In collaboration with the Centre for Technology and Development, New Delhi, UNU/INTECH, Maastricht (Sponsored by Natural Resources International, UK, 2005), the project has been completed, its final report submitted on January 15, 2006, and the report accepted by the sponsor.

Dr. Rajeswari Raina, Senior Research Fellow at CPR was in-charge of this project.

6. Analysis of the Case Laws Relating to Panchayats Involving the Examination of Nearly 800 Judgments of Different High Courts and the Supreme Court

For much of the year Mr. K.C. Sivaramakrishnan was involved in a major legal research work on the jurisprudence of Panchayati Raj. In the past decade, there have been over 900 judgements of the different High Courts and the Supreme Court relating to the various laws of the states to implement the provisions of the 73rd and 74th Constitutional amendments. The study involved going through these judgements to assess which were the points of jurisprudential importance, which were the matters where adjudication has settled the law, on which items were references to the Supreme Court called for and an identification of the anomalies or deficiencies in the state laws requiring rectification. Two other companion studies reviewed the Panchayati Raj laws as well as laws on other subjects which impinge on the functional domain of the PR bodies.

The study covered the southern states, Maharashtra, Goa, Orissa, WB and the North-east. It was conducted under the auspices of the Institute of Social Sciences where the author holds a concurrent honorary position as Senior Fellow. The remaining states were covered by another organisation, The Rural Litigation and Entitlement Kendra of Dehra Dun. The ISS study on behalf of the Ministry of Panchayati Raj drew significantly from the premises and hypothesis contained in the author’s earlier work Power to the People published by the CPR.

Mr. K C Sivaramakrishnan, Honorary Research Professor acted as Coordinator of the study.

CONTINUING RESEARCH PROJECTS

CPR faculty continue to publish in a variety of areas. Listed below are projects formally under the auspices of CPR:

1. A Definitive Study in the Evolution and Operation of the Provisions of the Constitution of India

   Work on the Project on A Definitive Study in the Evolution and Operation of the Provisions of the Constitution of India continued. Draft studies on articles of the Constitution are in different stages of completion/finalisation:

   i. Studies on the Preamble, the Union and its Territory (articles 1 to 4), Citizenship (articles 5 to 11), Fundamental Rights (articles 12-14), The Union-Executive and Legislature (articles 52-123), (articles 124-141), The States (152-213): finalised
ii. The Union (142-151); Subordinate Courts (233-237); Finance, Property, Contracts and Suits (264-300A); Trade, Commerce and Intercourse within the Territory of India (301-307); Services under the Union and the States (308-323); Tribunals (323A-323B); articles (324-330); article 15; articles (214-231); articles (352-395): second draft completed.

iii. Studies on articles 16, 19: first draft ready.

iv. Introductory chapters to the study- second draft completed.

Dr Subhash C. Kashyap, Honorary Research Professor is Director of this project, sponsored by Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), New Delhi.

2. India, China, Japan and the Emerging Security Scenario in Asia

Dr. Nimmi Kurian revised three draft chapters of an ongoing research project in the light of comments received from the referees. The first chapter examines critical new investigations into Asian security that look beyond an exclusively politico-military interpretation to arrive at a more nuanced definition. The second chapter looks at the context within which Asian security architecture operates by focusing on three historical processes, namely decolonisation, bipolarisation, and globalisation. The third chapter looks at the emerging trends in Asian security such as regionalisation of international politics; diffusion of security threats and rise of multiple centres of power as well as the security debate within major Asian powers and the hierarchisation of security concerns.

3. Technology and Security – India’s Long-Term Interests

This study is being conducted by Professor Brahma Chellaney.

4. Future of Nuclear Deterrence

This study is being conducted by Professor Brahma Chellaney

5. Optimising Forces for Conventional Wars and Low-Intensity Conflicts in a Nuclearised Southern Asia

Prof. Bharat Karnad is working on the Research Project on “Optimising Forces for Conventional Wars and Low-Intensity Conflicts in a Nuclearised Southern Asia”.

6. A Role for India in the Israeli-Arab Conflict

Work is in progress on the research project on “A Role for India in the Israeli-Arab Conflict”.

Prof. Bharat Karnad is working on this Research Project.

7. Political Violence in India

Mr. Ved Marwah, Honorary Research Professor is working on this project.
8. Social and Economic Rights: Law, Politics and Impact

The study assesses the impact of the Indian judiciary on the justiciability and enforcement of social and economic rights and examines the pattern of High Court and Supreme Court judgements on the rights to health and education, as well as the enforcement of these decisions. It is part of a multi-country comparison of the role of the judiciary in delivering social and economic rights. The collection of data on the judgements and the analysis of the trends have been completed. The researchers are currently engaged in finding out about the enforcement of the decisions in selected high courts.

Dr. Pratap Bhanu Mehta, President, CPR and Dr. Shylashri Shankar, Research Fellow are working on this project.

9. New Insights into Promoting Rural Innovation: Learning from Civil Society Organizations about the Effective Use of Innovation in Development.

This project draws lessons for innovation policy to meet poverty reduction goals. The project will pilot test the use of the innovation systems framework in a number of rural technology sectors in India and East Africa. The purpose is to use the framework (i) as an appropriate approach for understanding innovation processes that reduce poverty, and (ii) derive lessons from innovation processes associated with civil society led initiatives that are effectively using science, technology and innovation (ST&I) in poverty reduction. It tests the proposition that the civil society sector has been successful in leading initiatives where innovation is used for pro-poor rural development. An innovation in the research methodology is the creation of a Rural Innovation Policy Working Group (RIPWiG) in India to link the research more effectively to policy makers. This policy group will be a prototype mechanism for generating a policy debate on rural innovation grounded in on-going empirical experiences of innovations for development.

Dr. Rajeswari Raina, Senior Research Fellow at CPR is working on this project in collaboration with UNU/INTECH- Maastricht, CRISP- Hyderabad and XIIIM, Bhubaneswar. (Sponsored by UNU/INTECH, 2005-2006)

10. Status of Water Research in South Asia

This is a short overview by CapNet South Asia being co-ordinated by CapNet South Asia and its Research Co-ordinator in CPR. Country level compilations and analyses are authored by researchers in each South Asian country. The objective of this exercise is to contribute to a process of developing an understanding of the research in water and related sectors in South Asian countries, with a view to assessing how this knowledge can be accessed, modified /developed and utilised for operationalising Integrated Water Resources Management (IWRM) in the region and a compilation and assessment of R&D exploring current and future prospects for research on IWRM.

Dr. Rajeswari S Raina, Senior Research Fellow at CPR is working on this project, in collaboration with other members of ResNet SA, an interactive network for research on integrated water resources management (IWRM), under CapNet South Asia. (Sponsored by CapNet Global, Delft, 2005-2006).

Dr. Rajeswari S Raina, Senior Research Fellow at CPR has initiated the work on this project.

12. Parliamentary Research Service (PRS)

Parliamentary Research Service (PRS) started its operations from September, 2005. PRS is a project of CPR to focus on strengthening the quality of debate in Parliament. Thus, PRS has produced Legislative Briefs on the following Bills during the year 2005-06.

i. The Right to Education Bill, 2005 - 21 November, 2005
ii. The Pension Fund Regulatory & Development Authority Bill, 2005 – 9 December, 2005
v. The Indian Medical Council (Amendment) Bill, 2005 – 17 February, 2006

PRS has also produced the Parliament Session Summary – Winter Session – 23 November to 23 December 2005 (18 January, 2006) which contains a list of all legislative proposals that were introduced, discussed and passed in the Parliament. PRS has in addition produced the Budget Session Alert - Budget Session – 16 February to 28 April 2006 (20 February, 2006) which contains the list of all likely business to be taken up in the Budget Session, 2006.

Mr. C.V. Madhukar is Project Director of PRS Unit at CPR.

13. India’s External Relations: Role of Education Sector

Dr. Kavita Sharma, Honorary Adjunct Research Professor is working on this project, sponsored by Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India.

14. A Fresh Look on India’s Look East Policy: Strategic Dimensions

India's Look East Policy in recent years has assumed a greater economic dimension than a parallel political or strategic one. Given India's economic reforms and the attendant effort to integrate with the regional and global economy, it is but natural that Indian diplomacy, particularly in its relation with ASEAN countries, will focus more on economic issues like trade, investment, goods and services. And India's success in this sphere is quite significant. However, compared with the clout it has achieved as an economic player, its strategic role in the security of Southeast and East Asia is still quite marginal, notwithstanding its status as a nuclear power and the second largest country in Asia. Apart from its participation in the ARF dialogues and occasional forays into the Straits of Malacca for patrolling the area to help Indonesia in combating piracy, India unfortunately is an insignificant player in the security structure of the region. What appears striking to observers in Southeast Asia as well as in India is not the marginality of India's current security role in the region, but the conspicuous absence of a strategic vision of a future Asia-Pacific that can inform its policies and actions in the coming years to establish its rightful place in the Asian balance of power commensurate with its rising economic role and its potential as a stabilizing force in Asia. If India has to emerge as a major power in Asia-Pacific it has to have not only the vision of its economic future but also a vision of its future strategic role. The proposed study would be an attempt to fill this gap by looking into emerging strategic and security issues in the region and how India can articulate an appropriate response to them either independently or in cooperation with other major powers in the region.

Apart from articulating a strategic vision for India in Southeast Asia, the present study will focus on India's comparative advantages in the region - the prospect of India presenting itself as a regional hub for higher education, its strength as a multi-ethnic, multi-religious and multi-cultural polity, and finally its strength as model for post-colonial democracy. The main assumption in this study is that if India aspires for a major role in the emerging Asian balance of power, it has to offer something 'niche' and different from what other powers with interest in the region can offer. India's 'niche' is in education, culture and democracy and its ability to play an effective and enduring role in the region would depend on leveraging such comparative advantages to build interdependence and mutual benefits.

The duration of this project is spread over a year from December 2005 through November 2006. Prof. Ghoshal has already collected major data for the study from the MEA sources - statements of officials, agreements signed with the East Asian countries and newspaper reports. Currently Prof. Ghoshal is going through the reporting on India in the East Asian newspapers. He wants to spend part of June and the whole of July in travelling to some of the countries of Southeast Asia to undertake field research and interviews of officials and opinion-makers. He is also preparing an article on India-Indonesia Relations for a book to be published by the Foreign Service Institute, New Delhi. Another article on "Arabisation of Islam in Southeast Asia and its implications for the security of the region" is ready for publication in Contemporary Southeast Asia (Singapore).

Prof. Baladas Ghoshal, Senior Research Fellow is incharge of this project, sponsored by Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India.

15. Rethinking Northeast India’s Conflicts

Dr. Sanjib Baruah, Visiting Professor organised a workshop on the “Rethinking Northeast India’s Conflicts” Project in Guwahati on 30 November – 2 December 2005.

This project is funded by the Royal Netherlands Embassy, New Delhi. Dr. Baruah will be organising a second workshop on this project in the near future.

LIBRARY AND INFORMATION & DISSEMINATION SERVICES

Library

During the year 2005-2006, 269 books were added to the library of the Centre. The acquisition programme of the library was mainly restricted to books relating to subjects such as Policy Sciences, Economic Policy, Banking, Political Science, Futurology, Social Indicators, Foreign Policy, Defence and other fields of relevance to Research Programmes of the Centre.

The CPR library has a collection of a total of 12215 volumes including bound periodicals. The library subscribed to 50 journals and received gratis 40 periodicals. These cover major policy fields of concern to scholars at CPR. In addition to these, 16 daily newspapers are being received in the library.

The computerised system developed for processing and indexing of books is in operation.

During the course of the year, CPR continued to use its e-mail account with M/s VSNL for sending and receiving e-mail. The library continued to be a member of the Deveolping Library Network (DELNET), New Delhi. One fax machine and e-mail service are being used extensively for communication and information retrieval purposes. One Compaq Presario 6800 PC with Internet facility, provided by the ICSSR, is being used by CPR faculty/researchers.

With the help of two plain paper copiers, better and efficient reprographic facilities were provided to researchers and other staff of the Centre.

For other material and publications, the CPR library depends upon the services of 20 libraries of various academic and other research institutions in Delhi which have been generous enough to lend their books and journals for the Centre’s use on the principle of reciprocity.

COMPUTER UNIT’S ACTIVITIES

During the year under report, the following activities were undertaken by the Computer Unit.

i. 200 MB server space was purchased to upgrade the Centre’s web Domain. A Dynamic and Admin controlled web site was hosted. By making most of the site’s module dynamic, it is now possible to update its contents in-house. Web mail services were provided to the faculty on the Centre’s Domain.

ii. To support examination and testing work of ET&PPR Unit, Systems Analysis was done and necessary software developed for data processing of pre and post examination work of recruitment/admission tests conducted for various posts and categories.

iii. To support the Research Work of ET&PPR Unit, statistical analysis of examination data of a State Police Organization was undertaken and the following tables were brought out.

- Frequency distribution of total scores of three tests i.e Reasoning, Arithmetic & General Awareness.
- Percentage cumulative frequencies, means, medians and standard deviations of total scores.
• Above analysis on individual scores.
• Category-wise, education qualification-wise & religion-wise frequency distribution, means & standard deviations on total scores.

iv. The following new Hardware purchases were added during the year:

• Two IBM Thinkpad R52 series notebook computers.
• Ten Compaq Presario P-IV computers (256 MB RAM, 40-80GB HDD, CD writer, 17” Colour monitor).
• Six HP all-in-one and one Duplex printer.
• Ten Units of Uninterrupted Power Supply (UPS).
• Two units of 512 MB Pen drive.

v. Bandwidth of Centre’s Internet connectivity has been increased to 256 kbps (pure).

vi. System support services were provided for presentations related to seminars and conferences held at the Centre during the year. Maintenance and upgradation of hardware and software of the Centre’s computers were carried out as per requirement. The functioning of mailing services was also looked after.
